Step into a piece of Methow Valley history with this one-of-a-kind home, originally built as a local schoolhouse and lovingly transformed into a private residence. Nestled in the quiet, rural community of Carlton. Once home to a passionate rock and gem collector, the space reflects an artistic spirit filled with character, creative touches, and stories from its schoolhouse days. From hand-crafted details to the echoes of its historic past, this home offers a rare blend of heritage and personality. Whether you're looking for a full-time home or a unique retreat, this property offers a truly special opportunity to own a landmark with deep roots in the valley.
